REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Board of Trustees:

I have the honor to present herewith a report for the year closing June 30, 1930. Accompanying this report will be found those of other administrative officers. Attention is called to these supplementary documents. They deal in detail with the various matters committed to their charge. The President hopes that they will be read with care.

During the year under review the Board of Trustees has suffered severe losses. Mr. William Fairfield Warren, trustee emeritus, died on December 6, 1929. Dr. Warren was the last member of the Board who served with the founder of the College, and, although no longer in active service, continued his interest in the College. Mr. John Whittemore Farwell, a member of the Board since May, 1928, died on October 7, 1929. Mr. Andrew Fiske, the senior member of the Board, elected in 1896, died on January 26, 1930. The following resolutions were adopted by the Board in recognition of their service:

WILLIAM FAIRFIELD WARREN

At this, the first annual meeting since his death on December 6, 1929, the Trustees of Wellesley College wish to make record of the long service rendered by William Fairfield Warren.

The meeting for organization of the Board of Trustees of Wellesley College was held on April 16, 1870; the first annual meeting on June 20, 1871. At the third annual meeting the desire to add to the members of the Board was expressed. In seeking these additional members the founder of the College turned naturally to the first President of Boston University, an institution then only recently organized. Dr. Warren was one of the first group chosen after the incorporators, and his election took place July 5, 1873, at this third annual meeting. Thus, by his death, the Trustees lose the last member of the Board associated with the founders.

Dr. Warren began his service in time to take a large part in framing the first curriculum of the College and in deciding other important matters of policy before the College was opened to students on September 8, 1875.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

He was the preacher at the first Sunday service held in the College chapel. It is of record that he was a member of the Finance Committee for two years, 1898-1900. After more than fifty years of service he was made trustee emeritus in November, 1924. In the years since his retirement Dr. Warren has invariably replied to official invitations with a personal word of greeting and good wishes for the success of the College.

A scholar and Christian gentleman, Dr. Warren added distinction to the Board throughout his membership.

JOHN WHITTEMORE FARWELL

John Whittemore Farwell, a native of Waltham, died at Boston on October 7, 1929, in his eighty-sixth year. Although his service as trustee was brief, he had been generous in his gifts and had taken a deep interest in the welfare of the College before becoming actively identified in the direction of its affairs. He was a member of the Building Committee and his intense love of flowers led him to follow closely the development and work in the Botany Department.

Genial and kind, his presence and sound business judgment made him of great value to his associates on the Board of Trustees, who desire to make this modest record to evidence their regard and affection for a faithful friend.

ANDREW FISKE

Mr. Andrew Fiske was elected to the Board of Trustees in 1896 and throughout this long term of thirty-four years he was a member of important committees. He was serving on the Executive Committee at the time of his death, a position which he had held for twenty-six years. While his interest in the College was at first due, no doubt, to the fact that Mrs. Fiske was the daughter of that generous friend of the College, Eben Norton Horsford, he himself gave many years of friendly interest to the affairs of the College and always rejoiced in its success.

At the first meeting held since his death, the Trustees gratefully record their appreciation of his long and interested service to the College.

The College, as well as the community, was greatly shocked by the sudden death of Bishop Charles Lewis Slattery on March 12, 1930, only two days before the March meeting of the Board, of which he had been President since June, 1927. Bishop Slattery found time among his heavy church duties to serve the College in many ways. One of his last visits to the College was at the laying of the corner stone of the new administration building, Hetty Howland Robinson Green Hall, on January 31. The minute adopted by the Trustees follows:

We, the Trustees of Wellesley College, do hereby make record of our profound gratitude for the life and labors of Charles Lewis Slattery. A humble student of the Great Teacher and an eager follower after the truth, he was ever the faithful friend and wise counsellor of all whose hearts are set on the pursuit and the gaining of wisdom. It was, therefore, inevitable that he should place himself and his talents at the service of institutions dedicated to the guarding and the increase of truth. We are grateful that he was thus led to give himself, in unstinted measure, to Wellesley College.

Bishop Slattery was elected a member of the Board of Trustees in January, 1923. He served on the Committee on Educational Policy for three years, 1924-27, on the Committee on New Members, 1924-30, and was a member of the Library Council, 1926-28. He was elected President of the Board in June, 1927, and was serving in that position of honor and leadership at the time of his death. He also served the College on many occasions as preacher, bringing to it his rare spiritual insights and serving it, at these times, with great effectiveness because in him the offices of priest and prophet were graciously blended. His going has flung a shadow across the hillside of our days, but the shadow is dark only because the light of his devotion and the warmth of his fellowship were so life-giving.

We make this record to be kept within the archives of the College in perpetuity. It witnesses to our affection and to our thankfulness for this life, lived in simple strength and beauty and laid down in quiet trust. We are reverently grateful to the Eternal Spirit, who in love and wisdom gave him, and who, we believe, has in love and wisdom called him into His nearer and dearer presence.

The Board was strengthened by the election during the year of the following new members: Mrs. William Hewson Baltzell of Wellesley, a neighbor and friend of long standing; Mr. William Truman Aldrich, an architect of Boston; and Mrs. Charles Lewis Slattery, who had previously served on the Board from 1916 to 1923. The term of service of Mrs. William Sherman Hay, an alumna trustee, having expired in June, Miss Bertha Bailey, Principal of Abbot Academy, was elected on the nomination of the Alumnae Association as her successor.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

At the annual meeting of the Board, Mr. Robert G. Dodge, who had served as Vice President since 1928, was elected President; Miss Candace C. Stimson, Vice President, and Miss Grace G. Crocker, Secretary. At this same meeting the Trustees created a new office, that of Executive Secretary of the College. The duties were not exactly defined, but the office was created to relieve the President. Miss Crocker was appointed to this office for a term of three years.

The last report of the President commented on the retirement of Professor Mary Whiton Calkins and her appointment as Research Professor. Her colleagues on the faculty and her many other friends looked forward to many years of scholarly achievement for her. It was with great sorrow that the news of her death was received on February 26. A memorial service was held in the College Chapel on April 13. The service list will be found in the Appendix of this report. The following minute was adopted by the Academic Council of the Faculty:

We, the members of the Academic Council of Wellesley College, wish to express our sense of loss in the death of our friend and fellow worker, Mary Whiton Calkins, and to extend our sympathy to her family and her many friends.

Though her earthly life is cut off in a period of creative activity, yet there is rounded fullness in its great achievement. Her marked individuality of mind and of character has been, through her forty-two years of service, a strong creative force. No one has done more to guide the finer thought within the College, or to bring it honor in the world outside. In the field of idealistic philosophy and in her personalistic psychology her thought was original and constructive; her work brought her contacts with many scholars in the same field, and has won international recognition.

In teaching she was a clear and illuminating lecturer, and a skillful leader of discussion, fair-minded in the presentation of thought that differed from her own, and ever courteous in argument. In graduate and in undergraduate work she upheld high standards, and trained her students to work out their own independent conclusions. To those who have known her leadership she lives as an insistent demand for close, logical thinking, a revelation of the clear joy and the high austerities of scholarship, an unflinching source of strength and of insight.

In all her human relationships, as in her intellectual life, there was rounded fullness: strong devotion to family and friends, joy in companionship, glad fulfillment of all obligations. All who knew her were aware of her untiring industry, her magnanimity, her utter truthfulness, as they were aware of her humor, her love of beauty, her zest in simple pleasures. Through all the lighter notes of intercourse with her ran an undertone of seriousness. In her passion for justice she brought to bear upon social and political problems, upon conditions of poverty and of suffering, the same intensity of effort to find exact shades of truth that she brought to bear upon the problems of philosophy, and with this, unwearied endeavor to act in the light of her convictions.

There was a dynamic quality in her personality; no one could know her without feeling vital contact with living Christian faith; hers was a life spent consciously in the presence of God. Surely, in the future as in the past, her ardor of endeavor toward fuller grasp of the spiritual life, toward goodness, loyalty, generosity will be an integral part of the College life. Death cannot take from us Mary Whiton Calkins; for the memory of her, as did contact with her in life, will quicken our faith in the power of the human mind to find truth, in the power of the human will to choose the right.

In March news was received of the death in France of Mrs. Julia Josephine Irvine, M.A., Litt.D., Professor of Greek, 1890-99, President, 1895-99. Mrs. Irvine had lived in France since 1899, and very generously accepted the invitation of the College to return to Wellesley as Acting Professor of French for the year 1913-14. The following minute was adopted by the Academic Council and by vote of the Trustees became a part of the record of the May meeting of the Board:

Julia Josephine Irvine came to Wellesley in September, 1890, as Junior Professor of Greek language and literature. Her intellectual vigor and stimulating personality made immediate impression, not only upon the students in her classes, but also upon her colleagues of the faculty. Students found her teaching original and inspiring. While demanding exact scholarship, she always illuminated details by her knowledge of Greek life and ideals. Her terse, pithy comments had extraordinary power to suggest Hellenic breadth and spaciousness of thought.

During the first three years of her service the curriculum was radically changed from a largely prescribed course to one unusually liberal for that time. At the time of President Shafer's death in January, 1894, this new curriculum was just coming into operation, and upon Mrs. Irvine, who was President Shafer's successor, fell the task of reorganizing the College on the basis of a curriculum largely elective. The office of president had sought her—not she the office—and reluctantly she gave up her teaching for the unwelcome administrative task. She carried this executive work with courage and independence and with an unswerving purpose to maintain and advance the Wellesley standard of scholarship.

In her later years, though frail in health, her mental energy was undiminished. She read widely and was in touch with world movements, remarking on them in her letters with incisive comment and rare insight.

The memory of her erect, swift-moving figure, her direct and cogent presentation of a subject, her sense of humor, her reserved but deeply affectionate nature, is a constant and living inspiration to all who knew her. The College is the richer for her nine years of service as successively professor and president.

The academic year 1929-30 brought to a close the active service of three members of the faculty, Professor Alice Van Vechten Brown, Professor Margaret Hastings Jackson and Dean Edith Souther Tufts. Miss Brown was appointed Professor of Art in 1897 during the administration of President Irvine, and it is not too much to say that the present department is her creation. Miss Jackson was first appointed Instructor in Italian in 1890, Associate Professor and, finally, Professor of Italian and Curator of the Frances Taylor Pearsons Plimpton Library of Italian Literature. At various times she served the College by teaching classes in Spanish and in Greek Sculpture. Neither of these women had any connection with any other college, and the Trustees recognized this fact and their scholarly service to the College by awarding to them the honorary degree of Master of Arts. These degrees were conferred by the President at Commencement, with the following citations:

Alice Van Vechten Brown, Professor of Art in this College for more than thirty years, lover of order and beauty, pioneer and organizer whose vision and skill have created a department recognized as one of the leading departments of art in this country.

Margaret Hastings Jackson, Professor of Italian, whose service of forty years has reached honorable fruition in the Catalogue of the Frances Taylor Pearsons Plimpton collection of Italian books and manuscripts, a publication internationally appreciated for its scholarly accuracy, worthy of the priceless volumes it enumerates.

Edith Souther Tufts, Dean of Residence, received her B.A. and M.A. degrees from Wellesley, and an honorary degree of LL.D. from the university of her native state, New Hampshire. She was appointed Instructor in Greek, 1893-94; Registrar and Instructor in Greek, 1903-09; and after ten years as Registrar she became Dean of Residence in 1919. Under her guidance the organization of the department of residence was brought to a high degree of efficiency. She won the loyal support, not only of her colleagues, the Heads of Houses, but also of the whole official staff, no member of which was so generally beloved by the student body. By vote of the Trustees all of these three officers were given the title of Emeritus.

The drastic reduction in the retiring grants awarded by the Carnegie Foundation has been the subject of much discussion on the part of the Trustees. On the recommendation of the Finance Committee, the Trustees voted "that the forty-one members of the faculty reaching sixty-five after May 1, 1929, who are also in the College Plan, be assured that if the annuity received at sixty-eight from the Wellesley College Pension and Insurance Plan, combined with the reduced Carnegie grant, is less than the Carnegie grant at sixty-eight would have been under the 1922 rules, Wellesley College will make up the difference. For the five members who are on the Carnegie list, but not in the Wellesley College Pension Plan, the Trustees will make up for them as much as would have been taken from the College treasury in case they had entered the plan."

The experiment of using Monday for Commencement, thus shortening the Commencement season, proved satisfactory, and the Trustees thereupon voted on November 8 to amend the By-Laws, substituting Monday for Tuesday.

Miss Susan Minns, a generous friend of the College, especially interested in the Department of Botany, offered in the late spring of 1930 a gift which would make it possible to relieve Professor Margaret C. Ferguson from her teaching so that she might give all her time to research. The Trustees accepted the gift in June, 1930, and appointed Miss Ferguson Research Professor of Botany.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Following the custom of juniors in France, the Trustees authorized the policy of co-operating with Smith College in sending next year a small group of juniors to Spain. Assistant Professor Lavery will take charge of the students from both Smith and Wellesley for the coming summer in Santander, and Professor Foster of Smith College will supervise the entire group in Madrid during the coming academic year, 1930-31. It is hoped that we may ultimately have a group in Italy and in Germany.

The life of an educational institution goes on so quietly that often there is little that needs special comment. In May the Academic Council voted to raise the standard for graduation for the class entering in September, 1930. Further details of this discussion will be found in the report of the Dean of the College.

During the year the Academic Council considered again the General Examination in the light of two years' experience, and made some changes in its administration which will go into effect with the Class of 1931. In considering the date for the General Examination the whole question of the social schedule was discussed by a joint committee of faculty and students, and resulted in a simplification of the social schedule of the spring term. This committee also considered the possible limitation of overnight absences in view of the report made by the Dean of Residence on the statistics of the last semester. After consideration by this joint committee, the Senate of the College Government Association voted to limit the overnight absences of freshmen to eight for the first semester and ten for the second. An overnight absence is interpreted as meaning an absence after 10.30 P.M. on all evenings except Saturday, and after midnight on Saturday, exception being made for attendance at any campus activity.

A change in the constitution of the College Government Association was approved, by which the name of the Judiciary is changed to Superior Court, and the Chairman of the Judiciary to Chief Justice; in place of the House Councils

(one for each house), District Courts are established. These District Courts are fewer in number than the House Councils, three on campus and four for freshmen. The campus Courts consist of the presidents of the houses in the district. The Chairman of the House Presidents' Council presides over all these campus Courts, and one of the house presidents is elected as Secretary of all these Courts. The Chief Justice presides over the four freshman Courts, which are made up of the village juniors of the respective districts, one of these juniors acting as Secretary. The District Courts deal with minor offenses, the Superior Court considering the more serious matters. The substitution of these seven District Courts for the much larger number of House Councils which formerly existed secures more uniformity in dealing with offenders.

In June the Alumnae Association celebrated its fiftieth anniversary by organizing an Educational Conference for three days following Commencement. The program of the Conference will be found in the Appendix. The sessions were vital and stimulating, reflecting great credit upon the organizers and participants. It was altogether very successful and created a demand for similar conferences, if not annually, at least biennially.

A list of gifts will be found in the Appendix. This list does not include the gifts to the Library, which are mentioned in the report of the Librarian. Among these should be noted the Browning letters, presented by Ex-President Hazard, in memory of her predecessor in the president's office, Alice Freeman Palmer. In the report of the Librarian will be found a full description of these letters and of the exercises at the formal presentation on the afternoon of Baccalaureate Sunday. This is an outstanding addition to the Treasure Room of our Library, and constitutes a unique and precious gift from an already generous donor.

During the past three years the College has received from the Alumnae Association a total of $102,167, of which $97,566 was specified to be used for the Zoological Laboratory. It is hoped that this Laboratory may be begun sometime during the next academic year. The Executive Board of the Alumnae Association asked the Trustees to appoint a committee to confer with them in regard to the use of the Alumnae Fund for 1930-31. The Finance Committee and Miss Crocker constituted this Committee of Conference. Various plans were discussed. The Alumnae Board finally voted to give to the College whatever sum would be contributed, leaving to the Trustees the decision as to its use. The Trustees greatly appreciated this action on the part of the alumnae, and finally voted "that the Alumnae Fund for 1930-31 be used to create a fund of $100,000 to endow a professorship to be known as the Professor Mary Whiton Calkins Memorial Professorship, the income to be used to secure a visiting professor in any department; that until this sum of $100,000 is secured, a sum not exceeding $5,500 be taken annually from the Fund for the salary of this visiting professor; it is further provided that if in any year no visiting professor is available, the income of the Fund be used for the salaries of the Department of Philosophy and Psychology." In anticipation of this gift from the Alumnae Fund, Mr. L. Cecil Jane, M.A.Oxon., has been appointed as Visiting Professor of History for 1930-31. Mr. Jane has held positions at Oxford University and the University of Wales and is the author of highly esteemed books and monographs. He is the foremost authority on the life and times of Christopher Columbus.

From time to time the College has gratefully received bequests from alumnae and former students. These have varied in size from $500 to $25,000. In February the College was notified of a bequest from Mrs. Julia Bone Shepard, a student of the year 1877-78. While the executors have not yet paid over the money, it is evident that it will amount to over $100,000. It is a tribute to the early officers of the College that a student should remember with gratitude the education received during those pioneer days. In January the Trustees authorized construction of the third faculty house on the Horton Estate according to a plan designed by Mrs. Eliza Newkirk Rogers and approved by the supervising architect, Mr. Ralph Adams Cram. The house contains eight housekeeping apartments, and three small suites. It will undoubtedly be ready for use in September, 1930. The President will recommend to the Trustees at an early meeting next fall that a part of the Shepard bequest be used for this building.

The year under review is notable for the completion of the subscriptions to the Semi-Centennial Fund. This Fund was begun by the vote of the Trustees in 1920. It was hoped that the goal set at $9,000,000 would be reached in 1925 on the completion of the first fifty years of the College. The first phase was organized under the leadership of Elizabeth Goddard, '06, and the sum set for that first six months of effort, $2,700,000, was reached in June, 1921. No special solicitation was carried on during the year 1921-22. In 1922 Grace G. Crocker, '04, was made Executive Chairman of the Fund, and under her leadership a quiet but effective campaign has been carried on. While Miss Crocker has been loyally assisted by alumnæ and Trustees in approaching prospective donors, the credit is largely hers in bringing this task to a successful issue. Notable among the non-alumna gifts received during the last year was the $175,000 received for endowment from Mr. Edward S. Harkness, and the $300,000 from the General Education Board to be used as desired, either for endowment or buildings. Some of the subscriptions to this Fund will not be due for several years, and a full report of the Fund with the uses to which it has been put will be made when the final payments have been received. Meantime the Trustees felt justified in proceeding to construct the administration building. Accordingly a contract was signed with the L. D. Willcutt and Sons Company, and work was begun in the summer of 1929. The building is well on its way to completion and will be ready for occupancy before the spring of 1931.

In commenting on buildings made possible by the Semi-Centennial Fund, it should not be forgotten that at least $3,500,000 of this $9,000,000 was to be reserved for endowment, and already $3,573,017 has been received for permanent endowment.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

It may seem ungracious, in view of the generous gifts which have made possible the completion of the Semi-Centennial Fund, to call attention to the needs of the College. The fact remains that there are still many unsatisfied needs. First, our salaries are still far from what they should be to attract and hold able and stimulating teachers. We need two million for the increase of our salary endowment, for our schedule of salaries should be at least something like this:

Professors	$4,500-$7,000
Associate Professors	3,500- 4,000
Assistant Professors	2,500- 3,500
Instructors	2,000- 2,500

If we could secure for salary endowment annually $500,000 for the next four years, we would be able to adopt such a salary schedule. This I regard the need which should next engage the attention of the Trustees.

After the fire of 1914, Norumbega Hill was chosen as the site for the academic center. A beginning was made in the construction of Founders Hall and has now been continued in the building of the administration building. A place on this hill was indicated, not only for the housing of physics and experimental psychology, but also of chemistry and geology. It was also understood that room would be reserved for a possible addition to the art building and for another academic building if needed. It was understood that Freeman, Norumbega, and Wood, the frame houses on the hill, would ultimately be torn down. Part of Wood has already been removed to make place for the administration building.

It will be recalled that the College received as a part of the Semi-Centennial Fund a gift from an alumna of $180,000 toward a chemical laboratory. If an additional sum sufficient for this building is forthcoming within the next two or three years, it will be necessary to remove Freeman House, one of these frame houses. This means that before we can house our sciences we should build a co-operative house to take the place of Freeman and, ultimately, of Norumbega. A suitable site for such a house (accommodating 100 students in two units served from a common kitchen) has long been under consideration east of the quadrangle. A gift for such a house should appeal to those donors who are eager to furnish to deserving students the opportunity to help themselves. Fifty thousand dollars has already been promised for this house. There are at present about 290 students housed off the campus. It is conceded that Dower House, now housing 35 students, and Fiske, caring for the same number, should be regarded as temporary. We ought, therefore, to look forward to providing on the campus permanent housing for 375 more students. If we could remove not only Dower House, but the stable, from the site near Homestead, we should have a place for a dormitory center adequate for this number of students. The stable and outlying structures could and should be removed to the Weston Road property near the proposed site for a new power house if, and when, this becomes necessary. Another but presumably more expensive site would be on Tower Court hill northwest of Claflin. Beside the laboratories for chemistry, physics, experimental psychology, and geology, we need additions to the gymnasium, to Simpson Infirmary, to the Library, and to the art building. Of these additions, two seem imperative—that for the gymnasium and that for the infirmary. Important improvements should be made on the grounds. It is hoped that the budget of next year will provide for putting into permanent form Longfellow Pond. It is desirable that the slope to the lake on the south of Tower Court and the lake shore in that vicinity be improved. A comprehensive scheme for planting along Central Street should be made and carried out in annual installments, including the building of a wall in certain places along this boundary. Lanterns for lighting the grounds have been placed along the more important walks and roads. More should be added until the ugly poles and unsightly overhead wires disappear entirely from the campus enclosure.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

It goes without saying that to meet all these needed improvements and plant additions would require a large sum, probably about seven million dollars. There is no thought that such a sum will be available in the immediate future, but it is important that the Trustees should envisage this sum as a goal to be reached, if possible, by the completion of the sixtieth year of the College in June, 1935. May I repeat that the pressing need is for salary endowment?

In closing this report, I wish once more to express my appreciation of the loyal support of Trustees and of the official staff. No college president could have more loyal and co-operative colleagues.

ELLEN F. PENDLETON,

President.

June 30, 1930.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1930. During the academic year 1929-30, 293 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 610 hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 293 courses include only one course given by the Department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The distribution of these courses in the various departments will be given in the Appendix. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past four years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

The following table is based on tables like the preceding, and shows the relative size of the different departments of instruction for the last four years. The departments of Biblical History, Mathematics (until the year 1927-28), English Composition, Philosophy (until the year 1927-28), and Reading and Speaking owe their places in the first ranks in part to the fact that they offer prescribed courses.

In September, 1929, 10 seniors who failed to pass the General Examination in June met the test and were awarded the degree of B.A. at the November meeting of the Trustees. They are ranked with the Class of 1929.

In June, 1930, 322 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelor's degrees conferred by the College 10,301. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of sixty year-hours of class work. Every student is called upon to present a unified course either in addition to the required subjects or including that work as the beginning of her plan. This restricted elective comprises twenty-one year-hours, made up as follows: twelve in one subject and nine in another; nine in one and nine in another and three in a supplementary course; twelve in one department, and six in a supplementary department and three in another, also supplementary; or twelve in one department, and three other courses of three hours each, all three being supplementary to the major subject. The student presents for approval her chosen plan in the spring of the second year, and may revise in the third year. The purpose of this considered plan is obviously to secure a distinct objective in the last two years and to give the student some sense of mastery in one subject.

The following table shows the students in the Class of 1930 who in fulfillment of the above requirement completed nine or more hours in the various departments.

Of these 322 graduates, 18 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 51 the rank of Wellesley College Honor Scholars.

During the year 1929-30, eight seniors were candidates for the degree with Honors in Special Subjects. They were in eight different subjects, so that the tax on the instructors in charge was not too heavy. All brought their year's work to completion with approval, and two won the award offered by the Trustees, $750, to promote graduate study, one won the Billings Prize in Music, one the exchange scholarship at the University of Lyons.

Sixty-nine seniors received the recognition of Durant and Wellesley College Scholars, showing definite attainment above average in all courses, indicative of exceptional ability. That our seniors may be a class likely to show a marked degree of attainment, we have in common with other colleges of our standing found it necessary to exclude all juniors from entering the senior year who have any deficiency of standing. This stand has occasioned every year bitter protests, more from parents than from the students themselves, who generally recognize the justice of the ruling. The only exceptions considered are for illness over an extended period or for serious home conditions. In common with the women's colleges of the same standing, we hold that after three years in college further trial cannot be permitted to students below the required rank.

Five juniors of 1929-30 went to France under the direction of the University of Delaware, and are returning for their senior year in accordance with our custom of the past three years.

The total number of students registered November, 1929, was 1,563, classified as follows:

These tables of figures are significant to one familiar with the ebb and flow of college classes. In these last years when there have been too many applicants for a college education who have proved unfitted for an academic course and have drifted on from the secondary school course with no definite purpose and slight scholarly interest, the faculty has considered again and again what course to pursue to insure to the right applicants a sound and stimulating course that would meet individual needs.

We have instituted the course in Honors in Special Subjects, which has met with gratifying success, and has been pronounced by the students themselves the most valuable work for an interested and able student; the courses, given by several departments outside of classroom work, in directed reading—from one to three hours a week—have been an incentive to independent work to those who do not feel equal to the Honors course and are asking for more individual direction and closer relation with the instructor in their chosen major.

Although when we first made the requirement of a General Examination in the major subject at the end of the senior year there was a cry of dismay, the purpose is now more generally understood and appreciated by both the students and the faculty, not as an additional burdensome review of matter happily forgotten, but as testing the power to analyze and correlate the material of the whole course and to bring out the student's power to recognize leading ideas and to show initiative and independence in forming opinions on authoritative judgments in the field. The General Examination has distinctly strengthened the course.

This past year the faculty, reviewing the requirement of credit standing in women's colleges of the first rank, voted that with the entering Class of 1934 a C average should be the minimum requirement of the four years' course and that the average of the senior year should be C. This general average admits of a passing grade in some required and perhaps uncongenial subject, provided it is offset by sufficient B or A grades in other courses. All colleges have to battle against a uniformity of mediocre grade from those who are content with the minimum. The requirement for 1934 and later classes does not mean that only genius can meet the standing, but does expect thereby to make available its rare opportunities to those worthy students who might be crowded out without such a safeguard. By making also definite the standard for promotion from the freshman and sophomore grades, as well as the requirement for juniors that all deficiencies of credit and conditions be cleared before admission to the senior year, the faculty has taken further steps to keep the standard of scholarship.

Respectfully submitted,

ALICE V. WAITE,
Dean of the College.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF FRESHMEN

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit a report of the freshman class for the year closing July 1, 1930.

The class entering Wellesley College in September, 1929, numbered 436 students, of whom 4 were former students re-admitted to Wellesley College and 432 were new students. The distribution of these students according to the character of the schools in which they received their preparation is as follows:

Preparation entirely in public school	152
Preparation entirely in private school	143
Preparation partly in public and partly in private schools ..	138
Preparation completed in college	3
Number of schools in which preparation was completed	227
High schools	103
Private schools	121
Colleges	3
Schools in New England	71
Schools outside New England	156

The following table indicates the method of admission used by the 436 freshmen:

(C. E. E. B. and Regents)	7
(Canadian examinations)	1
(Oxford Responsions)	1
	133
Plan B (New Plan)	303

These figures show an increasing tendency on the part of candidates to use the New Plan of admission, which is now designated as Plan B. The percentage admitted by Plan B in 1927 was 49.8; in 1928 it was 58.2; in 1929 it was 69.5.

Placement tests in English Composition were again given to all members of the freshman class during the opening week of college. On the basis of excellence in these tests and in the entrance examinations in English, 17 students were exempt from the required freshman course in English Composition. Placement tests in French were given to all students electing French 103 in the second week of the college year. Three students took the special exemption examination in Hygiene 120, but no students passed the test.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to present the following report of the Department of Halls of Residence for the year 1929-30.

The opening of college found me still incapacitated by illness, and I was not able to return to my post until November 5, six months from the date of my leaving Wellesley the previous spring. I cannot at all express my gratitude to the President and Trustees of the College, to my own official staff, and to all my other friends for their thoughtfulness and generosity during this long period. Upon my return I found my office in perfect order, and the work going on with entire regularity. This was due in large measure to Mrs. Ewing, Head of Severance Hall, who took over my office hours and the chairmanship of the Heads of Houses with all that these involved, most loyally supported by my office assistants and by the individual members of my staff.

It was fortunate that the office force had been increased by two part-time workers. Miss Eleanor Sherwin, '89, who had been my valued assistant for ten years, was constrained by ill health to retire in June, 1929. In her place, Miss Margaret D. Christian, '15, Head of Webb House, was given charge of student registration for the Boston Club House. She has, also, ably taken Miss Sherwin's work as Secretary of the Heads of Houses.

Miss Sara T. DeLaney, '29, returned to Wellesley as assistant in the offices of the Dean of Residence and the College Government Association, carrying at the same time some graduate work. This connection between the two offices has proved most valuable, and Miss DeLaney has been an efficient liaison officer, securing mutual understanding and preventing mistakes caused by ignorance or forgetfulness of legislation.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The years have passed so quickly that it is hard for me to realize that I have had a longer term of office than either of my predecessors. There have naturally been many changes during the twenty-seven years since my appointment as Registrar by President Hazard in 1903. At that time the position of Registrar still carried with it various duties connected with the headship of College Hall. The office was still the "general office," where all sorts of questions might be asked, and the head of the office issued the Official Directory. She was, also, in charge of all alumnae arrangements in connection with the College, and compiled the Alumnae Register. In addition, the Registrar was permanent secretary of the Committee on Student Entertainments, and was in charge of arrangements for Tree Day, including the issuing of tickets to returning alumnae. She was, also, at that time Secretary of the Heads of Houses and member of the Village Committee, of which the other members were the Secretary to the President of the College and the Health Officer.

It must be remembered that in September, 1903, the College numbered 977, and that the Alumnae Association was composed of but twenty-five classes, the earlier ones small in number.

The burning of College Hall and consequent opening of a distinct administration building severed the connection between the Registrar's office and any one particular hall of residence. The rapidly increasing importance of the Alumnae Association, both in business and in numbers, made necessary the appointment of an Alumnae General Secretary, at first an assistant in the office of the Registrar and then an independent officer with a separate office of her own, now increased from the original box in the present "Ad Building" to a dignified and beautiful suite in Hetty H. R. Green Hall. A few years ago it seemed suitable to give over to the Alumnae Office all Tree Day business connected with returning alumnae, retaining the arrangements with the houses and the giving out of tickets to the undergraduates.

When, in the revision of College Government functions, the

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

Committee on Student Entertainments became a joint committee of faculty and students, the ex officio membership of the Registrar came to an end.

The removal of the offices to a separate building and the increasing numbers of the College, the consequent increasing complexity of college life and more numerous visitors, made advisable the separation of the Information Bureau from the office of the Registrar, though there has continued a close connection between the two.

The Official Directory was for a number of years the special task of Miss Eleanor Sherwin, who gave scholarly care to its form and accuracy. Upon her retirement in 1929 the question was raised whether the issuing of this important pamphlet might not be considered the province of the Bureau of Information. Miss Jessie Adams, head of the Bureau, was willing to assume the responsibility, and has given great interest and care to the work.

Up to this point, it would seem that this report has been chiefly concerned with the activities pushed off upon the shoulders of some other official, but it must be noted that Wellesley College increased in numbers from 977 in September, 1903, to 1,563 in September, 1929; that the number of houses increased during the same period from ten to thirty, and to this number must be added the Club House in Boston, the several faculty houses, and Alumnae Hall, whose supervision comes under the department of Halls of Residence. It must be noted, also, that the increased elaboration of living in the world outside has been of necessity reflected in the College, and that life in the Halls of Residence has become each year more complex.

In 1919 the title of Registrar was dropped from the college list as a misnomer, since the duties connected with the office at Wellesley were not those of the usual college registrar, and the Trustees honored the holder of the position with the title of Dean of Residence as describing more exactly the department over which she had jurisdiction. It was obvious that her province must be clearly defined, that she must hold her office hours behind closed doors; but she confesses to a tender feeling for the earlier and more diffuse years when the whole College passed sooner or later through her office without let or hindrance, for one reason or another or for none at all.

One activity has not been shifted, but has come to a happy end. With the increase of college houses owned or rented in the village, and the corresponding decrease of private ones, with the gathering of the freshman class into the four college dining rooms, the functions of the Village Committee dwindled and finally ceased altogether. Joint meetings of college and private houses were held at intervals to discuss common problems, until at last the few remaining private houses were taken under the supervision of the heads of the central dining rooms with which they were connected for meals. At the end of the year 1928-29 the last private house was given up, and at the opening of the year under review the College saw the fulfillment of its long-deferred hopes in the housing of the entire undergraduate body in buildings under its own control and management.

A change in legislation has made one definite addition to the duties of the Dean of Residence. In December of the present year the following vote was carried:

A senior may apply to the Dean of Residence to be absent without a chaperon. Such permission will be considered for Saturday night only.

It was feared that this greater freedom would mean crowded office hours, but thus far there have been only a moderate number of requests, not at all out of proportion to the size of the senior class, and there is no present evidence that the privilege has been abused.

There has been no change since my last report in the organization of the Heads of Houses. The meetings continue to be held on the first and third Tuesday mornings of the month. As heretofore, the work of the department is divided among committees—Student Interests, Food, House, and Social Service. Of these the first is naturally considered the most rewarding, and is a valuable connecting link with the College Government Association. The Heads of Houses continue to have a representative upon the Senate and Judiciary, and value greatly this opportunity for keeping in close touch with the student point of view. The Food Committee, as in the past, is constantly endeavoring to raise the standard of the college table in attractiveness and food values without increasing the expense. The House Committee has done excellent work the past year in establishing closer connection with the Lake Waban Laundry, in order by co-operation to secure better service and a mutual understanding of difficulties. The Committee on Social Service forms the connecting link with the Christian Association Committee for work among the maids. There are fewer classes for instruction than at one time, due to fewer demands. Possibly the type of maid has changed somewhat, and the College may be getting on the whole a better educated class. There is excellent work done in providing attractive and suitable social entertainments for the maids at intervals during the year. One new committee has been formed, the Committee on Foreign Students, which attempts to keep in touch with this important group resident in the various college houses.

Mrs. Bergen continues to increase the desirability of Horton and Hallowell Houses as homes for her faculty family, and the addition of the third house, still unnamed, which forms the third side of the Horton quadrangle, will increase her usefulness and well-earned praise. Mrs. Bergen was able during a brief vacation trip to make a valuable study of food management in several institutions similar to Wellesley, and gave a most interesting report of her findings and conclusions which is filed in the minutes of the Heads of Houses.

There has been no diminution in the use of the Boston Club House under the judicious management of Mrs. Bronson and her competent staff of helpers.

The Dean of Residence was asked to make a study of student absences, and with the aid of all the office staff presented a report of the absences of the entire undergraduate body for the first semester of the year 1929-30. This is now on file for future reference, but it is not easy, without an enormous amount of work, to make sure that the results of such a study are absolutely accurate.

The end of the year brings the retirement of four of the Heads of Houses, greatly to the regret of their colleagues—Mrs. Brandau, Mrs. Irish, Miss Stallknecht, and Mrs. Bronson. It was hoped that the lighter responsibilities of Crofton House might prove not too much for Mrs. Brandau's strength, but it became evident at the end of the first term that it was unwise for her to continue, and she gave up her post to Mrs. Mary Morse Richardson, former Head of Homestead, who, happily for the welfare of the Crofton family, was able to come at short notice to fill the vacancy. We are glad that Mrs. Brandau will continue to make her home in Wellesley and so give us the pleasure of her comradeship.

Mrs. Irish and Miss Stallknecht carry away with them the sincere gratitude of the College for their unfailing loyalty and their help in difficult times. Both suffered the discomfort of a change of house under disagreeable necessity, Mrs. Irish at Stone Hall and Dower, and Miss Stallknecht at Lovewell House. And, though it is many years past, we do not forget Miss Stallknecht's great service in the improved diet kitchen at Lovewell at the time of the influenza epidemic of 1918.

Mrs. Bronson's service at the Club House in Boston will be long remembered, not only by her fellow Heads of Houses but by the hundreds of Wellesley girls she has sympathetically looked after for the past five years. We are glad for her that an advantageous position takes her nearer her family, but her place will be hard to fill. It is expected that her able assistant, Miss Lilian Lincoln, '99, will carry on the work with the help of one of the recent alumnae.

I close my last report with mingled feelings, but chief among them is a feeling of gratitude that I have been allowed to serve Wellesley College for twenty-seven years under the happiest conditions.

Respectfully submitted,

EDITH SOUTHER TUFTS,

Dean of Residence.

REPORT ON GRADUATE INSTRUCTION

the two Trustee Scholarships awarded to members of the senior class. The general supervision of graduate work included the consideration of students' programs presented by departments, the reading of theses, and finally the recommendation of candidates for degrees.

The Committee recommended to the Academic Council this year one change in the Legislation which was adopted; namely, that in place of the old requirement (Legislation, Article VIII, Section 1*d*) that candidates for the degree of Master of Science in Hygiene and Physical Education shall have 48 year-hours in courses such as would be accepted for the Wellesley Bachelor of Arts, including at least 38 hours in pure science and the humanities, there be substituted the requirement that "Candidates for the degree of Master of Science in Hygiene and Physical Education shall either be registered for the Certificate of Hygiene and Physical Education at Wellesley College or shall give evidence of having satisfactorily completed the equivalent of the work for this Certificate . . . and give evidence of ability to carry on advanced study and research."

One of the perplexing problems which has confronted the Committee with increasing frequency this year has been the decision as to the exact amount of credit toward the Wellesley Master's degrees which should be granted for work done in foreign universities. This problem arises both in the case of foreign students who come to Wellesley, and of American students who wish to do some portion of their work abroad. The growth of the problem undoubtedly represents desirable progress toward a more cosmopolitan culture, and a growth in international understanding. In view of these advantages, the Committee strives to facilitate adjustments, while hoping at the same time that with the assistance of departments concerned and of other committees they may work out a more exact technique for handling such matters.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN SARD HUGHES,
Chairman.

Important purchases for the general collection include a number of periodical sets, most of them needed to complete broken files of scientific publications: the Zeitschrift für wissenschaftliche mikroskopie, 32 vols., Zoologische anzeiger, 20 vols., Archiv für entwicklungs mechanik der organismen, 4 vols., and a complete set of Science Abstracts, Section B, 31 vols. We also purchased during the year the Boletin de la Real Academia, Madrid, 16 vols., and the Boletin de la Real Academia de la Historia, 79 vols. Important purchases for the Art Library made from gifts to that department were a set of the Monuments Piot, 30 vols. and Das Evangelistar des Speyerer Doms; for the Botany Library, Farlow, W. S., Icones Farlowanae and Zahlbruckner, A., Catalogus lichenum universalis; for the Music Library, complete scores of Chopin, 16 vols., and Mendelssohn, 46 vols.

Gifts to the general collection in the Library include the Journal of Charlotte Brinckerhoff Bronson (née Hunnewell), 4 vols., privately printed, from Mrs. Walton Martin; Trees of the Islands, from the author, Mrs. Walter F. Frear (Mary E. Dillingham, '93); A Flora of North America, 3 vols., Philadelphia, 1821-23, from Mr. Frank Hunnewell; Calendar of State Papers, 1586-88, from Alice Jaques, '30; Works of Booth Tarkington, Seawood Edition, 21 vols., from Mr. Gabriel Wells; Memorials of Peter A. Jay, privately printed, 1929, from Mrs. John Jay; besides many volumes from Miss Margaret H. Jackson, Miss Elizabeth W. Manwaring, Miss Alice Bushee, Dr. Rondinella, and other members of the faculty. Mr. R. W. Lull, a book dealer of Newburyport, presented to us some letters and a manuscript of Katharine Lee Bates which had come into his hands, and which have now been added to our collection of Miss Bates's books and manuscripts.

Gifts to the Treasure Room Collections during the year include a leaf from the first dated Bible, printed by Fust and Schoeffer in Mainz, 1462, and a leaf from an illuminated Psalter of the fifteenth century, besides a number of volumes privately printed for the Club of Odd Volumes, Boston, from Mr. Robert Gould Shaw, who has for a number of years proved himself a generous friend of the Library. A copy of the reprint of William Blake's Gates of Paradise, made some years ago under the direction of the late W. A. White of Brooklyn, was given to us by his niece, Miss Elma Loines; and several volumes have been added by friends among our faculty, notably Miss Margaret H. Jackson and Miss Elizabeth W. Manwaring.

Gifts to the English Poetry Collection also include The Ring and the Book, a presentation copy from Browning to Tennyson, with an inscription by the former and the letter of acknowledgment written by Tennyson. This was a gift from Mr. Lewis Kennedy Morse, and was the occasion of his last visit to the Library not long before his death. During his service as Treasurer of the College and after he gave up that office, Mr. Morse had always been keenly interested in the Library, and this is only one of the gifts we owe to him. Of the many books presented by Professor Palmer none will be more treasured in years to come than the copy of the limited edition of his translation of the Odyssey recently issued with illustrations by N. C. Wyeth, bearing the autographs of the translator and the illustrator. A large paper edition of the Poems of Two Brothers, with a letter from Tennyson, is another valuable gift from the same generous donor, besides letters from various eminent persons, including one of five pages from Bismarck.

Quite overshadowing other letters in importance, however, were those given us by another friend and former President of the College, Miss Caroline Hazard, in memory of her predecessor, Alice Freeman Palmer, and in graceful recognition of her own long friendship with Professor George Herbert Palmer. These were the love letters of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning, all that ever passed between the two poets who were never separated after their marriage until the death of Mrs. Browning. They were contained in the original caskets in which the poets kept them. The gift awakened wide interest, which extended far beyond the college community. After the public announcement of the gift, the letters were on exhibition during the spring and the Commencement season. The afternoon of Baccalaureate Sunday was notable in the history of the Library, for at that time the formal presentation of the letters took place. Nearly one hundred alumnæ and guests gathered in the Exhibition Hall outside the Treasure Room, where Miss Hazard was seated with the boxes containing the letters on a table in front of her. In presenting the letters, Miss Hazard paid tribute to Professor Palmer who was seated on her right, and said that it was due to his desire that she had purchased them for the Library, since he felt that this gift would crown the Browning collection given by him, and be a fitting memorial to Mrs. Palmer. President Pendleton accepted the gift on behalf of the College, thanking both Miss Hazard and Professor Palmer, and the Librarian and the Curator of the English Poetry Collection expressed on behalf of the Library our great appreciation of the gift. Professor Palmer then spoke of the whole collection of English poetry as standing for a memorial to Alice Freeman Palmer, of her admiration for the Brownings and of his own gratitude that this gift had been made in her memory, repeating his belief that it is the crown of the collection of Browning books and manuscripts which includes all the first and rare editions of both poets.

There have been many displays from the English Poetry Collection during the year in the cases in the Exhibition Hall. The outstanding exhibition, however, was that held there and in the Treasure Room early in March, illustrative of the life and work of John Keats. It consisted of pictures of persons and places known to the poet, as well as pictures of Keats himself and facsimiles of some of his manuscripts, with clippings and quotations illustrative of the places visited by him and of the persons whom he met. The collection was loaned by Mr. Louis A. Holman of Boston. In addition, there were displayed the rare editions owned by the Library. The exhibition was in honor of Professor Margaret Sherwood, retiring after her years of teaching in the English Literature Department of the College, during which time she has awakened the enthusiasm of her students for the work of Keats by her own scholarly appreciation and love for the poet. The exhibition was very largely attended by the students. The Library was very proud to be entrusted with Mr. Holman's collection, which is unique in its completeness, illustrating as it does every phase of the life of Keats.

The exhibition in May of valuable books owned by students was interesting, but disappointing in comparison with that of 1928, when the display cases at both ends of the building were filled. This year it was not possible to fill three cases entirely. The difficulty in finding students interested enough to form a committee such as assisted the Librarian two years ago was partly responsible for the inadequate response to the request for books for the proposed exhibition. It is hoped that another effort may meet with more success.

The loss of Professor Margaret H. Jackson, retiring after forty years as head of the Department of Italian, is felt very keenly by the Library, as she has always acted as curator of the Plimpton Collection. Her Catalogue of that collection, described in the Librarian's Report for 1928-29, will remain a monument to her scholarship. It was characteristic of her that she left as her parting gift to the Library a notable addition to the Dante collection: a copy of the first edition of the Vita Nuova. Strangely enough, this work of the great poet remained in manuscript until 1576, when Bartolomeo Sermartelli of Florence printed the "little work reputed to be of no small value" and because of its small bulk included in the volume the life of Dante by Boccaccio. While her Catalogue has made it possible for another to take over the care of the Plimpton Collection, there is no one who can bring to it the wide acquaintance with Italian literature, the scholarly appreciation of its rarities, and the bibliographical acumen of Professor Jackson. It is hoped, however, to make it more and more appreciated by the College community and to give to scholars every opportunity to consult the books and manuscripts. Requests for photostat reproductions of some of these have already been received since the publication of the Catalogue.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

The rare book collections continue to attract many visitors to the Library, and with the accession this year of the Browning letters, the Curator of the English Poetry Collection has been kept busy welcoming guests and otherwise responding to the desire of the public to know about the collection. On the afternoon of May 7, about fifty members of the Boston Browning Society visited the Library to see the letters. They were welcomed by the Librarian, and the Curator of the collection sketched briefly the history of the Browning collection. After seeing the letters and rare editions, they were entertained at tea by the College at Tower Court. On the same day, the Curator exhibited the letters and talked about the Browning collection to the students of Dana Hall in their new building, at the invitation of the Principal, Miss Helen Temple Cooke, whose own interest in the collection prompted her gift two years ago of the bronze original of the "Clasped Hands."

The Melrose Browning Club also visited the Library, and in addition to the usual number of classes which have been held in the Treasure Room, classes from Pine Manor and Dana Hall and groups from other schools in this and neighboring states have come to see the books in the English Poetry Collection and especially the Browning letters. Besides welcoming all these guests and talking to them about the collection, the Curator has written articles for the College News about the various exhibitions of the year, and a longer article for the Alumnæ Magazine. All such things add to the pleasant but time-consuming care of the collection, which includes the cataloguing of the new additions. The task is fast becoming one for the full time of a curator. The present curator adds to the duties connected with the care of the collection the care of the Alumnæ Historical Collection and the important task of acting as head of the Circulation Department. The latter, which is vitally connected with the everyday work of the Library in relation to the academic work of the College, must not suffer, and it so becomes increasingly necessary that one of Miss Weed's duties be delegated to another.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

At present no one else on the staff has time to take over the Alumnae Collection, and no one who knows Miss Weed's work in connection with the Treasure Room Collections would consider giving it to anyone else. This brings us directly to the crying need for more assistants in the Library, and face to face with the fact that with our crowded working space there is no suitable place to put them. In her report for 1927-28, the Librarian pointed out some of the reasons why an addition to the present library building is becoming imperative. During the year now under review, members of the staff have given a good deal of time and thought to the problem, with the result that several tentative plans have been made and discussed. All are agreed on certain fundamental needs in planning such an addition, and the consensus of opinion is that there should be a radical rearrangement of the whole building in connection with it. In time, an addition to the building will have to be made; meanwhile we must resort to such makeshifts as may be possible in rearrangement and do our best to secure all the efficiency we can.

The installation of table lamps on three tables in the Newspaper Room, and of a filing case in the Treasure Room have added in the one case to the comfort of the students who work in the former room, and in the other to the convenience of caring for the autograph letters and other material in the Treasure Room.

The Library was exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure Miss Ruth H. Calkins to take the position of Reference Librarian during the absence on leave of Miss Metcalf. Miss Calkins was on the staff of the Wellesley College Library from 1914 to 1918, and so did not come as an entire stranger to the College community. We are very grateful to the Seattle Public Library, where Miss Calkins has been Head of the General Reference Division for eight years, for acceding to our request that she be given leave of absence to come to us for the year. Her association with the staff and with the College has been altogether pleasant and helpful.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

An increase in the staff of the circulation department has become imperative. In addition to continuous service at two desks, this department is supposed to handle all the work in connection with the reserved books, but the immense amount of time and labor required in the constant removal and replacement of the approximately 6,000 books on the reserved shelves now necessitates calling upon the time of assistants who are needed in the cataloguing and order departments. At some seasons it requires the services of almost the entire staff. The circulation statistics for the year, together with the statistics for cataloguing and binding, will be found at the close of this report. For the first time, statistics of circulation in those department libraries where a member of the library staff is in charge have been included and add considerably to the total number of books circulated.

In addition to the work of the catalogue department recorded statistically, the publications of the League of Nations which are received by the Library were sorted and checked with the new check list issued by the World Peace Foundation, and Library of Congress cards for these ordered. If possible, in addition to the other work of the cataloguing department, which constantly grows more pressing, these cards will be prepared and entered in the catalogue during the coming year.

The decrease in the number of volumes bound during the past year is only apparent. Last year's report included books sent to the binder in June, and consequently billed during the present fiscal year. This report represents the number of books sent to the binder through May, 1930. Hereafter the number of volumes reported as bound will correspond with the reported cost of binding.

In closing it gives me pleasure again to acknowledge the loyalty and helpfulness of the Library Staff, the interest and co-operation of the Library Committee, and the invariable and understanding support of the Administration.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL DANE ROBERTS,

Librarian.

TREASURER
JAMES DEAN
1929-1930

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

The Treasurer suggests calling attention to a few points in the following report which afford a measure of satisfaction in our progress for the year, and of encouragement for the future.

Funds. In looking back over the year the two highest peaks of endeavor are, perhaps, the completion, through Miss Crocker's able efforts, of the Semi-Centennial Fund, and the beginning of the new Administration Building. Out of the $9,112,848 subscribed to the Semi-Centennial Fund the College has already received $8,643,340. To this fund is largely due the increase for the year of $509,895 in our permanent endowment. Other funds have increased by $63,241, so that the total addition for the year to funds principal is $573,136. The report shows on page 114 the increase in each group of classified funds.

Investments. As to the investment of funds, the following summary shows a few salient points concerning securities held at the end of the year, and the income received during the year.

	Book Value	Proportion of Total	Market Value	Net Income
Bonds	$7,604,550.05	82.8%	$7,981,126.38	$396,940.18
Stocks	1,100,267.44	12.	1,535,044.88	76,548.37
Call Loans	150,000.00	1.6	150,000.00	14,838.89
Mortgages	42,400.00	.5	42,400.00	2,283.48
Investments in Dormitories	248,481.69	2.7	248,481.69	14,087.92
Life Insurance Premiums..	32,920.78	.4	32,920.78	—
Miscellaneous	—	—	—	6,739.13
Total	$9,178,619.96	100%	$9,989,973.73	$511,437.97

The net profit of $29,877 derived from the sale of general securities was added to the Securities Investment Reserve Fund. Because of the unusual business depression and financial uncertainty it has seemed advisable to hold intact, for the present, the principal of this fund instead of making the customary pro rata distribution to other funds entitled to share in profits on securities.

Plant. The second peak in the year, the new Administration Building, accounts largely for the increase in value of our plant. Its beginning demanded the demolition of Wilder, and its growth the elimination of half of Wood. The new building promises to justify such sacrifice by its contribution to efficiency and to beauty in the life of the college—a promise appreciated most, perhaps, by the faithful who have sat for sixteen years in a "temporary" structure of beaver board. Another important addition to our plant comes through the completion of Shepard House, which affords dignified and commodious accommodations for members of the faculty. We have always with us power-house alterations and various minor items. The net result of all changes during the year added $585,080 to the value of our plant. Principal available for the purpose met $561,988 of this expense, while current income paid $23,092.

The value of movable equipment shows a decrease of $31,634 from that of the previous year. This decrease was due to the result of the inventory, which we take every five years. In order to avoid overvaluation we reduced the inventory, when completed, by one-third, and then brought book values into agreement with this reduced total. Therefore the resulting valuation of $1,269,209 for movable equipment is a conservative estimate.

Income and Expenditures. Current income and expenditures show some interesting points. For the first time, all four classes paid the increased charges for tuition and board. Therefore tuition and fees increased by $19,272. The increase in board, however, was more than offset by the cost of extraordinary dormitories repairs and maintenance, with a resulting decrease in net income from dormitories.

We reduced the amount of endowment funds temporarily invested in dormitories by $33,276. In the seventeen years since annual reduction of such investment became effective, current income has paid to endowment principal $285,702, so that endowment invested in dormitories now stands at $248,481. We also added from income this year $48,984 to our reserve for depreciation of service buildings. Academic salaries showed an increase of $13,014 and academic expenses other than salaries an increase of $8,300 over the previous year.

Income derived from gifts for current purposes was $4,990, an increase of $1,270 over the previous year. It is significant that we derive so small a portion of income from such gifts. We should gladly welcome additions, but we do not depend upon so precarious a supply.

The increase in income from endowment funds was due primarily to an increase in rate allowed, from $4\frac{3}{4}$ per cent in 1928-29 to 5 per cent in 1929-30.

It is gratifying that the net result of all current operations shows a surplus for the year of $6,272, and increases our accumulated surplus to $30,382.

Respectfully submitted,

EVELYN A. MUNROE,

Assistant Treasurer.
